“One by one, the birds settled back into the island - except for the old Canada goose... the one who had tried to eat her hair.”

“The little arctic fox crouched behind a rocky outcropping, her small white ears perked forward as she watched the researchers collect their gear...”

If he was going to live through this, the little petrel needed to keep flying

NICK COURAGE

“The tendons in the doe’s long neck tensed as she waited...”

“The tiny hawk shifted from one foot to the other on top of her cold marble perch...”

NICK COURAGE

“For once in her life,
Fang didn't mind her jacket.”
